PAWDICURE & FOOT PADS MASSAGE

Clipping your pet's nails can be a tricky task. If they are cut too short, you will make them bleed. If your pet's are not clipped on a regular basis, they can grow too long causing your pet to experience pain and discomfort while walking or standing. We know exactly how to trim your pet's nails safely and comfortably.

We offer "pawdicures" for dogs who like extra pampering. Our pawdicure includes trimming/clipping the nails with conventional nail clippers and filing your dogs nails short and round with a hand-held dremmel finishing it off with Tahiti Monoi Oil to help your dogs nails stay strong and smooth. This can benefit both you and your dog. Dremmeling the nails allows us to trim the nail as short as possible without cutting the quick. When the nail is filed to the quick without cutting it, the exposed portion of the quick eventually recedes with regular walking so that the nail may be trimmed even shorter the next time they get a pawdicure. Over time, this can help with dogs whose quicks have grown so long that the nails can barely be trimmed.

Dogs have 2 types of sweat glands. The first type is called merocrine glands. These are located in the foot pads of dogs and function to help cool the animal. The second type is called apocrine glands. These are located on most of the rest of the dog but they do not function to cool the animal. Their purpose is to release pheromones. Our special foot pads massage technique will help release build up of toxic and open up the pores.

UNIQUE ZEN SPAW SERVICES

Japanese Canine Onsen & Deep Massage

For most Japanese people Onsen is not a regular part of life, but essentially a respite from it. In the Japanese philosophy, Onsen should be the diametric opposite of everything in your normal, hectic day-to-day life. Onsen blends the mysticism and spirituality of the East into the traditional sweat bath practice, lending it a Zen, meditative quality.

Onsen water is believed to have healing powers depending on its mineral properties and content. The extremely acidic hot spring Onsen water is believed to ease neuralgia, alleviate muscle pain and the symptoms of chronic skin disease. It also relieves chronic fatigue and stress. Since ancient times, Onsen water has been renowned to help maintain beautiful skin.

In addition to its many health and beauty benefits, the hot springs energize the metabolism. The Onsen experience is also known to calm nerves and put the bather in a relaxed, meditative state. Great for the senior canine and the canine with hip dysplasia, arthritis, sore limbs and more.

Doga Classes

(a portmanteau of "Dog Yoga") is the practice of yoga with pet dogs.

Through acts of meditation, gentle massage and stretching, Doga practitioners seek to achieve a greater level of harmony with their dogs. Canine trigger point massages combined with chanting exercises are also known to take place within the Doga routine.

Master & Submissant the Zen Way

Doga is for dogs and humans to assume their roles as submissant and master to work as one unit. Masters will help their dogs facilitate different poses, and in some cases, the pets will be used as props or instruments to assist their masters in perfecting their own poses. This exchange of energy can be viewed as a Zen way of practicing non-traditional yoga and training, while also exploring power play dynamics.

Doga also helps establish a pact-mentality by strengthening the bond between owner and pet, and has the potential to provide additional weight resistance to intensify one's common yoga ritual.

Doga is also a great source of entertainment and leisure for dog-friendly class members.

Very safe and quite to be zen.....namaste

Compassionate action helps improve the quality of life, happiness and health of all beings. Through the integration of the latest advances in mind/body natural medicine, consciousness studies, animal behavior and studies in the human animal bond, Monica has developed new theories, approaches and techniques that could possibly help transform us into a more compassionate, happier, healthier society by focusing on every place where we connect and interact with animals, our kindred spirits.

Take Time for Yourself

Before we can truly love others we first need to learn to love ourselves unconditionally, which for many people can be the most challenging part of their spiritual growth.

We can be so busy "loving" others and "doing" for others that we neglect ourselves. How can we truly allow ourselves to be loved by another if we don't even know how to love ourselves first?

If we don't factor in time in our lives on a daily basis for self-love and self-nurturing we are being hypocritical and not in our integrity. Any "love" we are giving out to others is likely to be tainted with resentment about meeting their needs and not ours or be conditional upon getting something back from that person.

Beginning to sound familiar? The vast majority of us can probably relate. No wonder our hearts have been closing down vibrationally. Unconditional love requires nothing in return - it just is.

Unconditional Love

Owning a pet gives people an opportunity to just naturally open their heart up to unconditional love as they feel the purity of their animal's love and know it is not manipulative or calculating nor does it have a hidden agenda. An animal does not care how you look, what job you have, how much money you make, what car you drive or the house you live in. I feel animals are far closer spiritually to God than we are.

In our materialistic society the majority of people confuse self-love and self-nurturing with amassing physical possessions, such as fancy cars, big houses, lots of clothes, etc. How many people do we know who seem to have all the material things yet are depressed and empty inside. Hollywood is full of them. So-called self-nurturing may also be excessive consumption of alcohol, over-eating junk food, being a couch potato in front of the television, all of which are injurious to our health and do nothing to nourish us at a soul-level, where the real need for nurturing lies.

Monica will help you look at some positive soul-healing ways to nurture and love yourself

Doggie Daycare & Overnight Boarding

15 dogs ONLY per day

At Cocomojor Spaw & Emporium we break all the rules of a traditional kennel or boarding facility. We create a happy calm "DAYCARE BOUTIQUE" style where is cage free and they have free roam around the facility. At Cocomojor we create a loving and playful environment that will keep your pet happy and healthy. We achieve this with play, rest, love and snacks (not necessarily in that order). We are not into hoarding we are into boarding. Therefore we only take up to 15 dogs a day so they can enjoy their one on one attention instead of getting lost in the pack. Socialization is the key element to keeping them healthy.

Play keeps a dog's mind and body active, which helps to build a healthier, happier, better behaving canine. Contrary to play, boredom can lead to destructive behavior like chewing, licking, digging or barking.

At Cocomojor we ensure your canine is always happy by giving regular walks, playing games and giving lots of doggie cuddles. On our walks, your pup will be kept cool with our award winning cooling products and if it rains we deck your doggie out with their own specialized raincoat to make sure everyone stays dry. On Aloha Friday we offer aloha wear to help spread the ALOHA spirit.

Every morning and afternoon your pet will enjoy an all natural snack straight from our Doggie Barkery. For the advanced pooch, DOGA = dog yoga and massage is available upon request.

Dogs who play hard, nap harder and at Cocomojor, nap time is as important as play time. Your pet will enjoy restful restoration in their private air conditioned setting.

Everyday we provide your pet with consistent stimulation, interaction, play time, nap time and TLC. We ensure a clean, healthy, fun and nurturing environment that your companion will look forward to visiting each day.

At Cocomojor, our staff is dedicated to ensuring your dog is well cared for and safe, at all times. We get to you know your dog and your dog gets to know us, truly becoming part of our extended family. Our staff have over 20 years of experience in the canine field from dog grooming, canine skin care, dog breeding, dog show confirmation and dog obedience. We have the knowledge to teach and take care of your canine to give the very best daycare and overnight socialization setting at Cocomojor where you dog enjoy coming to be with their BFF (Best Furry Friend)
