With beer, barbecue and sports galore, NYC is a dad paradise - on Father's Day and beyond

Father's Day is just around the corner and you need something nice to do for Dad. There are more than a few awesome things to do with your father in NYC — whether you're looking for activities on Father's Day (Sunday, June 15), or just want to pal around with your "old man" on a free day this summer. Whether the dude in your life loves whiskey, baseball, boats, golf or just eating good, hearty food, these 12 NYC spots offer plenty of ways to celebrate.

Sail around the city tasting craft beer

What could be more relaxing for Dad than taking a nearly two-hour cruise around the Hudson River whilst sipping craft beers? Manhattan by Sail offers the Clipper City Craft Beer Tasting Sail at noon on Father's Day 2014, and every Saturday and Sunday during the summer, too, for dads everywhere who are looking for just such a break. Board the 158-foot vessel in Battery Park and sample five brews from various beer sponsors (on Father's Day it's Keegan Ales and Lake Placid Brewery), paired with cheese and charcuterie from Stinky Bklyn. Battery Park, Slip 1, 212-619-6900, get tickets
